Why Provide Scholarships?

UCR students confront greater challenges than ever. It is very tough to count on financial aid alone without taking on debt or finding work. Affiliates Scholarships offer promising students help in attaining their academic goals.

Meet the 2016-17

UCR Affiliates Scholarship Recipients:

Maquela Faulkner: Junior, Biology Major. Participant in Feel Good UCR and Dynamic Genome Outreach Group. Her goal is “to become a biopsychologist” to “understand the biological factors that play a role in altering human behavior.”

Perla Garcia: Senior, Languages and Literature Major. Involved in Catholic outreach programs. She hopes to work as a court interpreter or teacher in Spanish, French, and ASL. “My education at UCR will help me achieve these goals...whatever path I choose.”

Yaritza Diva Leos: Junior, Bioengineering. Volunteer and mentor for science and engineering. “I would like to innovate medical devices that will improve the health of the general public or those suffering from diseases and disabilities.”

Laura Lopez: Junior, Art/French. Volunteers as a Big Brother/Sister. “I know that there are still traditional families with parents who do not encourage their kids to pursue artistic careers. I want to help kids follow their own path.”

Cameron Tuck: Junior, Anthropology. Member, Native American Student Association. He aspires to work in urban planning: “I have been astounded by the impact that environments can have on people and the relationship between architectural design and social organization.”
